

Wintry Impacts to Travel

April 16, 2022
5:10 AM

Sunday

Key Messages

- Brief near blizzard conditions are possible Sunday, in the Devils Lake Basin
  - ◆ Uncertainty lies with the location and extent of snowfall rates, and how strong winds get Sunday afternoon.
  - ◆ 30-50% chance for near blizzard conditions at times in DVL Basin.
  - ◆ 10-20% chance for areas in the northern valley
- Any areas of combined high snowfall rates and strong winds see visibilities reduced to ¼ of a mile or less.
- Impacts to travel anticipated Sunday. This is due to quickly reduced visibility and accumulating snow under a strong area of intense snow, as well as drifting snow causing icy spots.

National Oceanic and
Atmospheric Administration
U.S. Department of Commerce

National Weather Service
Grand Forks, North Dakota

Hazardous Travel Conditions

April 16, 2022
5:10 AM

Graphical Hazards Matrix

	Sun 4 AM-7 AM	Sun 7 AM-10 AM	Sun 10 AM-1 PM	Sun 1 PM-4 PM	Sun 4 PM-7 PM	Sun 7 PM-10 PM	Sun 10 PM -1 AM	Mon 1 AM - 4AM
Devils Lake
Langdon
Grand Forks
Hallock
Fargo
● Morning and evening	Impact Level	Little/None	Limited	Elevated	Significant	Extreme

- Morning and evening commutes look to be impacted the most from reduced visibilities.

Hazardous Travel Conditions

April 16, 2022
5:10 AM

Winter Safety

Preparedness Actions:

- Be prepared for hazardous travel today from intermittent heavy snow showers.
  - Turn on headlights.
  - Do not use cruise control.
  - Do not slam on brakes.
  - Keep additional distance between yourself and other vehicles.
- Consider having an alternate travel plan if travelling within the North Dakota into Minnesota.
- Monitor the forecast from trusted sources.

Additional Resources:

NWS Grand Forks Webpage

Winter Safety - During the Storm

Social Media: Facebook Twitter

National Oceanic and
Atmospheric Administration
U.S. Department of Commerce

National Weather Service
Grand Forks, North Dakota